

FOCUS

I'm focused on making business grow through design.

With a background in both psychology and business, I'm passionate about designing challenging digital products, blending UX & visual design with business strategy to drive measurable results. As my time as a consultant, I've done work in various verticals ranging from venture capital firms to oil burner manufacturers. It doesn't matter what business you're in. I've learnt: The user always come first. Design directly affects business. Design is powerful. Design is evocative. Design influences the way we think and make decisions. And I'm all about using design and data visualization techniques to deliver delightful, robust and (dare I say it) magical systems for end users. Currently, I am learning about digital production and interaction design.

WORK

Beckett Corp

UX Consultant

April 2018 - August 2018

This oil burner manufacturer wanted to bring their product into the 21st century by converting their oil gauges into an internet-of-things product. It was my job to design a system allow users to view their oil tank metric and manage their oil gauges and hubs through a mobile application. As the lead UX Designer on this project, I was required to research the needs of the end-user, decide on relevant metrics, and visualize the data into a mobile interface.

Net Zero Enterprises

Brand and Design Consultant

September 2017 - February 2018

This venture capital firm wanted to rebrand themselves. Through a one day workshop, we were able to establish the companies' values and mission. Using an iterative design process, I was able to work collaboratively with the leadership to design new logos and digital presence. I was able to take the web designs and implement them into a reality by helping the firm setup their wordpress site.

Thinking around Corners

Brand and Design Consultant

September 2017 - February 2018

Collaborated with designers and developers to research, ideate, design and prototype digital experiences for various start-ups.

TruWork

UX Researcher and Designer

September 2017 - February 2018

Designed a cloud-storage app created for individuals to optimize organization and productivity for their work. I conducted user research and based on the results, worked to differentiate this product from competitors in the cloud sharing space.

coHabit

UX Researcher and Designer

September 2017 - February 2018

coHabit seeks to make the roommate search easier. During the process of user research, I was loudly corrected by my users. It was humbling, but also allowed me to design with confidence knowing decisions were made with the voices of users.
